National banks of the United States have an unemployed loaning capacity sufficient to finance at market value the entire cotton crop and half, if not all, of the tobacco and wheat crops, and conservatively to justify an expansion of credit of two or three billion dollars, according to a statement issued by Controller of the Currency Williams.

Friday's War News.

Additional victories for the Teutonic Allies on Russian soil have led to the fear in London that Grand Duke Nicholas will not be able to make a successful stand on the Brest-Litovsk line and that a retirement of the Russian armies further into the interior of Russia will be necessary. Kovno has fallen before the giant shells of German siege guns and preparations are being made for the evacuation of the fortresses of Vilna and Bialystok.

Beyond the French claim that they have successfully occupied the summit of Sondernach, in the Vosges Mountains, there has been no development of importance on the western front.

The Allies' claim of an advance of 500 yards on the Gallipoli peninsula is contested by the Turks, who contend that all the efforts of their antagonists have been in vain.

Developments in the Balkans are expected soon by the European capitals. The reported acceptance by Eleutherios Venizelos of the task of forming a new Greek Cabinet in which he would be Premier is the chief basis for this belief.

TEXAS STORMS WORK RUIN

Galveston Hard Hit And 1,000 Feet of Sea Wall is Broken.

GALVESTON DEATH LIST 20

Property Loss Will Be Enormous And Details Slow Coming In.

Houston, Tex., Aug. 20.—Direct word from the southwest coast of Texas brought details of the Gulf hurricane which put many cities in peril. The death list Thursday night was estimated at 125, the heaviest loss of life being at Virginia Point. The deaths were recorded as follows: Virginia Point, 30; Texas City, 18; Galveston, 20; Morgans Point, 11; Hitchcock, 7; Pa. Porte, 7; Port Arthur, 4; Lynchburg, 3; Sylvan Beach, 3; Seabrook, 3; Houston, 2. Some of the estimated property losses were as follows: Galveston, $3,000,000 to $15,000,000; Houston, $2,000,000; Texas City, $400,000; Port Arthur, $200,000; Seabrook, $100,000; Sabine, $100,000; Sabine Pass, $100,000; Kemah, $50,000. The United States Army camp at Texas City was destroyed and ten troopers killed. One thousand feet of the sea wall at Galveston was swept away, and the causeway cut in many places.

In addition there was an enormous loss to cotton growers in the storm belt, some estimates stating that 25 per cent. of the crop of Central Texas was destroyed, and placing the loss at "millions of dollars." The oil fields also suffered severely and it is probable that it will take $500,000 to replace destroyed derricks, recap unroofed tanks and repair damaged machinery.

STRENGTH OF SEA WALL.

That the death list did not approach that of the storm of 1900 was due to two causes—the strength of the Galveston sea wall and the haste with which residents of the coastal plains sought places of refuge in conformity with the warnings of the Government Weather Bureau.

Galveston, as in 1900, bore the brunt of the storm, but this year bulwarked against the elements. The storm reached its height there at 3 a. m. Tuesday, when the wind rose to ninety-two miles an hour. This was eight miles an hour more than the Weather Bureau recorded for the 1900 visitation.

PLANS MADE FOR TRIP

DINNER WITH FERRELL BOYS

Vice Presidents Discuss Plans at Hotel Latham—Much Interest Shown.

A meeting of the Vice-Presidents of the Dixie Bee Line Association south of the Ohio River, was held yesterday morning, starting at 10 o'clock in the parlors of Hotel Latham. All the representatives present were enthusiastic over the prospects of the Dixie Bee Line.

R. E. Cooper was elected as chairman of the meeting with J. J. Conroy, of Montgomery county, Tenn., as secretary. Mr. Ben D. Hill made the address of welcome representing the Hopkinsville Association.

First part of the morning was taken up with organizing the meeting and discussing what plans it would be best to follow in selecting the route for the committee which will travel over the various proposed routes at a date in the near future to decide definitely upon the route to be followed in the building of the road.

The committee also had to plan out a time schedule, a list of distances and all other complete arrangements for the trip.

Letters from several towns were presented to the entertainment committee asking for stop-overs in cities during the tour of inspection. These were all given due consideration by the committee.

It was agreed upon to have the tour of inspection during the week starting with September 13. President Bosse, of Evansville, was telephoned and he concurred with this date.

After the morning session the committee adjourned and went out to Lake Tandy where they took dinner as the guests of the Ferrell Boys. Later on in the afternoon the work of the Bee Line was again taken up and many matters of importance were discussed.

MANUAL TRAINING TEACHER

Arrived In Town Wednesday; Will Coach Athletic Teams.

Prof. E. N. Mallory, the new manual training teacher of the High School arrived in the city Wednesday night. Mr. Mallory is a graduate of the University of Illinois and of the Bradley Polytechnic Institute of Peoria, Ill. He taught manual training for three years in the high school at Somerset, Ky., and since that time has been teaching in the city high schools of Michigan.

Prof. Mallory has made a specialty of manual training in his studies and teaching and is well suited for the position as head of the manual training department. He has on display now in the principal's office at the high school building a piece of his work of which he is especially proud. It took him ten months to complete the piece which is a Bohemian inlaid center table of Mahogany and Orange wood.

Mr. Mallory was elected by the board of control to be athletic director and coach of all teams. He is a former athlete of skill and promises to turn out the most peppery aggregations of scrappers that ever defended the orange and black on a football field, baseball diamond or basketball floor.

REUNION OF FERRELL'S BOYS

Held Yesterday With About 150 Former Pupils in Attendance.

MEETING AT TABERNACLE

Enthusiasm Ran High and The Occasion Was a Great Success.

Nearly one hundred and fifty former pupils of Major J. O. Ferrell gathered together at Hotel Latham yesterday morning at eight o'clock and went out to the first reunion of Ferrell's Boys. Although the inclement weather conditions made it impossible to have the reunion held on the grounds at Lake Tandy, the enthusiasm ran high and the day was in every way a great success. Many of the old Ferrell students met again for the first time since their boyhood and discussed their school days.

The people of Hopkinsville generously offered their automobiles to the reception committee and a long line of cars left the door of Hotel Latham promptly at 8 o'clock and took the guests out to Lake Tandy where the meeting was held in the club house. The cars had to make several trips in order to carry all of the men out and drove them right up to the club house steps. The committee had left nothing undone at the Lake to make the day come off without a hitch. The barbecue was prepared under tents and the club house furnished ample room for the crowd.

At the tabernacle last night the session was continued and the public was invited to be present. A large number of the people of the city attended the meeting and enjoyed the evening's entertainment.

C. M. Meacham presided over the meeting. Mr. Geo. E. Gary made an opening address welcoming everybody to the meeting. Col. Malcolm H. Crump, former commandant, and Hon. Frank T. Glasgow, one of the teachers of the Ferrell High School, made addresses. Many of the former students were called upon to tell reminiscences of the good old days and a number of interesting stories were told. A full account of the reunion will appear in next Tuesday's Kentuckian.

GERMANS SINK ANOTHER SHIP

Of 423 Persons on Board The Arabic Thirty-Two Believed to Have Perished.

TORPEDOED, NO WARNING

Twenty-Six Citizens of the United States Among Passengers of the Vessel.

London, Aug. 20.—The White Star liner Arabic was torpedoed and sunk on her way to New York by a German submarine at 9:15 o'clock Thursday morning southeast of Fastnet.

The steamer, according to the White Star line, was attacked without warning and went down in ten minutes. Of the 423 persons on board—181 passengers and 242 members of the crew—32 are missing and are believed to have perished. Most of those not accounted for belong to the crew. Only six passengers are reported missing.

Whether any of those not accounted for are Americans has not yet been determined, but there were only 26 citizens of the United States on board, 22 being in the second cabin and four in the steerage. The Arabic carried no first-class passengers, having lately been turned into a two-class liner.

Survivors left the steamer in the ship's boats and were picked up by passing vessels. They arrived in Queenstown tonight and are being accommodated by the White Star line in hotels and boarding houses in the little town which a short time ago cared for the Lusitania survivors and dead.

Details of the sinking of the Arabic are lacking, but that the loss of life was not greater doubtless was due to the fact that the weather was fine and that steamers plowing the German submarine war zone now keep their boats swung out and otherwise are prepared for emergencies.

The torpedo that sank the Arabic struck her on the starboard side 100 feet from her stern. The vessel had left Liverpool Wednesday afternoon and was on a southerly course, well off the Irish coast, doubtless with a view of avoiding the submarine, which frequent waters nearer the shore.

TORPEDO LAUNCH'ED.

When the vessel was some fifty miles west of where the Lusitania was sunk in May the German underwater boat rose to the surface and launched a torpedo. The marksmanship of the Germans was deadly.

ENDANGER RUSSIAN ARMY

Victorious Teuton Forces Besides Taking Kovno Capture Additional Forts.

FRENCH SCORE SUCCESSES

Claim to Have Greatly Improved Their Positions in Artois and the Vosges.

London, Aug. 20.—The sinking of the White Star liner Arabic, with the possible loss of some fifty lives, has overshadowed all other war news, despite the fact that the continued German advance in the east is endangering part of the Russian army, and soon must have an effect on other fronts.

Berlin repeats the claim that the fortress of Kovno has fallen, compelling the Russians in the Kalwarys and Suwalki districts to fall back.

In fact, the Russians now appear able to hold their own only in the Baltic provinces, where they are preventing the Germans from advancing.

Besides the capture of Kovno the Germans have taken additional Novogeorgievsk forts, and according to their account, have penetrated the outer position of Brest-Litovsk, the great fortress, the mainstay of what was expected to be the new defense line.

There is no evidence yet of Grand Duke Nicholas' intentions, but military writers believe the swiftness of the German advance has rendered it impossible for him to make a stand on the Brest-Litovsk line, which already virtually has been turned by Field Marshal von Mackensen in the south and by his colleagues in the north.

The French have scored two successes in the west, taking a German trench in Artois and a heavy all-day bombardment after making a further advance on the Vosges. On both advances the French claim to have greatly improved their positions.

There have been some long distance artillery engagements between the Serbians and the Austrians across the Danube, but thus far there is no evidence of the commencement of the Austro-German offensive which was to carry relief to the Turks.

The Ottoman forces, besides being closely pressed on the Gallipoli peninsula, where a new British contingent has obtained a firm footing, and by the Russians in the Caucasus, are threatened by a new enemy—Italy. The Italian government, angered by the disregard by the Porte of protests against the treatment of Italian subjects in Turkey, is reported to have issued an ultimatum demanding that Italians be allowed to leave the country, how, when and where they desire, a privilege heretofore denied.

Italy, according to Rome, is making steady progress against the Austrians.

GOOD USE FOR A ROAD DRAG

Implement is Light, Easily Handled and Should Be Worked Soon as Possible After Each Rain.

There exists a prevailing opinion in the minds of those who have used the King road drag that the persistent use of this simple drag will do the ordinary earth roads more good for the amount of time and labor required than any other method of working ever proposed. Some of the best earth roads have been made good by the use of this simple implement. In fact, some advocates of the drag claim that the trustees of many townships could well afford to sell the heavy road machines to a junk man and invest the proceeds in a number of split-log drags. Spasmodic use of the split-log or similar drag or the like use of any road-working implement will not make bad roads good. The drag is light and easily handled and should be used as soon after each rain as the condition of the surface will permit. The job was quickly finished and the results are surprising where the dragging is carried on throughout the year. Possibly the most marked improvement from the use of the road drag will result from the early spring dragging.

Perspective View of Split-Log Drag.

BUILDING MORE GOOD ROADS

America Now Has 6,000 Miles More of Improved Highways Than France—Total Now 31,000 Miles.

According to the Good Roads Year Book of the American Highways association, recently issued, America now has 6,000 miles more of good roads than France, the total for this country now amounting to 31,000 miles.

Of this 6,000 miles were built in 1912 and about 6,000 in 1914, making a total of over one-third of the entire mileage of the good roads of the country.

New Jersey was the pioneer state to provide state aid for public highways in 1891, and Massachusetts and Connecticut soon followed, but it is only during the last ten years that the state-aid policy has been in effect to any considerable extent.

PHASES OF ROAD PROBLEM

Those Interested in Work Will Find Joint Congressional Committee Report Quite Handy.

Persons interested in the good roads problem, either from the engineering or the legislative standpoint, will find the report of the joint congressional committee on federal aid to good roads a convenient source of information. It not only contains the most extensive data ever published on this subject, but contains a bibliography which gives a list of books, pamphlets and speeches on all phases of the good roads problem. The report is printed as house document 1510, Sixty-third congress, third session, and copies may be secured by application to members of congress.

Do Road Work Early.

For good roads the work should be done in the spring and early summer, if possible. Roads worked in the late fall don't get time to settle before winter, consequently are rough and uneven all winter. Do the road work early.

Terrible Picture of Suffering.

Clinton, Ky.—Mrs. M. C. McElroy, in a letter from Clinton, writes: "For six years, I was a sufferer from female troubles. I could not eat, and could not stand on my feet, without suffering great pain. Three of the best doctors in the state said I was in a critical condition, and going down hill. I lost hope. After using Cardul a week, I began to improve. Now I feel better than in six years." Fifty years of success, in actual practice, is positive proof that Cardul can always be relied on, for relieving female weakness and disease. Why not test it for yourself? POULTRY FACTS

LITTLE HINTS FOR POULTRY

Watch Chicks Closely and Save Those Making Most Satisfactory Growth—Keep Them Busy.

(By MRS. G. W. RANDLETT, North Dakota Experiment Station.)

Human sympathy to the bird's comfort amounts to dollars and cents. Clean the nests occasionally and put in a fresh supply of nest material. Uniform nest boxes add to the attractiveness of the house.

White diarrhea is contagious among young chicks.

The purchase of a few baby chicks from some fine pen of birds will make a splendid start if you care to start in June.

If your breeding pens were properly bred and mated you need not be surprised to find some of the chickens developing into finer specimens than their parents.

Watch the chicks closely and mark the ones making the most satisfactory growth. Select the ones that are plump, full-breasted and in good proportion. You will not care to keep those that grow leggy and have thin breasts.

Never, under any circumstances, keep more birds than you can take care of well.

Green food is necessary for all ages of poultry, but doubly so for the little chicks. Water and green food are cheap and very important.

Be sure the baby chicks have plenty of exercise. Keep them busy and hungry.

Keep the hopper full of dry mash all of the time. This gives the chickens an opportunity to balance the grain rations fed.

Remember, full-fed chicks are paying chicks. It pays big dividends to hurry their growth.

Always practice absolute cleanliness in feeding.

Cull the flock closely. Keep the best and prepare the rest for market.

Enrich the garden plot with the poultry droppings.

Constant thought and judgment are necessary in poultry raising.

YELLOW COLORING IN SHANKS

Has Not Yet Been Proved That It Means Hen Is Equipped to Lay More Eggs Than Others.

Many believe that a hen that has yellow skin will give richer milk than will one that has a white skin. But how about a hen with the yellow shanks of that color laying the most eggs? At the Maine station it has been found that the coloring matter which gives the yellow color to a hen's shanks is the same as that which gives the color to the yolks of the eggs, and that the shanks of a good layer will be much lighter in color at the end of her laying period than when she began.

So it looks like the coloring matter in the shanks has been used to color the yolks of the eggs. It hasn't been proved yet that a lot of yellow coloring in the shanks means that the hen is equipped to lay a lot of eggs, and how about those that have white, black or blue shanks? But maybe something will be worked out from this coloring matter business that will help us to know good layers.

DIARRHEA FATAL TO CHICKS

One of Most Common Causes of Mortality—Disease Can Be Prevented by Proper Feeding.

One of the most common causes of chick mortality is white diarrhea. While it has been established that this disease is usually communicated to the chick before it is hatched, it has also been established that the disease can be held in check and even prevented by proper feeding.

The organisms that cause white diarrhea are killed by weak acids. For this reason sour milk can well be made a part of the chicks' rations for the first few days. Either moisten the food with it, or set in shallow drinking pans. In addition, however,

HOLLAND IN BAD STRAITS

Hard for Little Monarchy to Maintain
Neutrality and Keep Its Ancient Friendships.

To the man in the street in Amsterdam or Rotterdam neutrality means "the hell of war without the compensating glory."

Holland at large has now the care of three hundred thousand Belgian refugees, who, living together in specially constructed villages, have to be fed and lodged and kept as happy as circumstances allow. The work is done with devotion, but the glory of war is absent. On all sides danger still lurks. Fiercer than ever, European conflagration burns about this single spot.

With its commerce hampered upon all sides, with its legitimate trade made impossible by the illegitimate rules of arbitrary neighbors, Holland continues in its self-imposed task. She has been abused by her neighbors for her lukewarmness in what they consider a holy cause, she has lost all chances of future political reward by her abstention from the conflict; yet future generations will recognize that during those very difficult days little Holland calmly maintained a just neutrality while ministering to those who innocently were made to suffer.—Hendrik Van Loon, in Century Magazine.

YOUTHFUL VICTIMS OF WAR

Grim Toll is Levied on the Best of the Citizens of Countries
Involved in Strife.

War's toll is taken in the flesh of youth. It is the future of the land, not its past, that follows the flag to death. More tears are shed for sons than for fathers, husbands or brothers. It is not only from among those of greatest youthful vigor that war does its recruiting; it sacrifices many who are still mere children. Midshipmen of fifteen are going down with their ships in every naval engagement of the present war. Others hardly older are filling the ranks of the infantry and guides.

Our Civil war was fought by armies in which the average age of enlisted men was only nineteen and of officers but twenty-three. In any country which raises its troops through voluntary enlistment boys are bound to be in the majority. For it is youth which rushes to the colors without a thought of the horror that lies ahead, without the outstretched hands of dependents to hold it back.

One sickens when he contemplates what this slaughter of Europe's youth means to the future of science, art and business. We shall never know what a wealth of budding genius withered at the cannon's mouth.—New York Mail.

A WORLD OF WOE.

"A sympathetic woman. She wept for Belgium, she wept for Poland and she wept for the starving Mexicans."

"Alas! Are her tears still flowing?"

"Yes. She has just heard that dogs are mistreated in the city pound."

HELP WANTED.

"What makes Crimson Guleh so strong for woman suffrage?"

"Well," replied Broncho Bob, "somebody ought to vote, an' there's so much goin' on here that all of us men folks is either too busy or scared to."

A GOOD GUESS.

"If that savage dog over there who is growling at us could only talk, I wonder what he would say about us?"

"I'm sure he would make some biting remarks."

Good in "Absent" Treatment.
There is nothing like a little "absent" treatment to cure a man of that tired feeling and make him see your charms in a new and glowing light.—H. Rowland.

INSTRUMENTS NEEDED FOR CAPONIZING

Instruments Used in Caponizing.

There are several sets of instruments made for the purpose of caponizing a fowl. These differ principally in the type of instrument used in getting hold of and removing the testicle.

One type is the cannula, a. This consists of a hollow tube, the lower end of which is compressed and closed except for two small holes through which to run the horse hair or wire comprising the other part of the instrument. This type is very satisfactory, but requires two hands to operate. Another type is the twisting scoop, b. This is a spoonlike scoop slotted in the center and mounted upon a slender rod. It is designed to slip under the testicle, allowing the spermatic cord to pass through the slot. By twisting the cord is severed. This type has the advantage of requiring only one hand to operate, but is more liable to produce slips than the cannula. A third style of instrument, c, is also in the form of a spoon or scoop, but instead of being in one piece has two jaws regulated by a slide. The testicle is caught in the scoop with the spermatic cord between the jaws, and by tightening the jaws and gently moving the instrument the cord is severed and the testicle removed. Still another type, not now in common use, is the spoon forceps. With this the testicle is simply grasped with the forceps and detached by a twisting movement. Here one hand can be used also, but the liability of slips is rather greater than with the other methods.

K, shows a type of forceps, consisting of two hinged arms, one of which terminates in a broad, flat surface, and the other in an end of similar shape, from which the center has been removed, leaving only a narrow rim. These two ends are held closely pressed together by means of a rubber band passing across the handles. In use, the ends of the forceps are separated, the solid one slipped under the testicle and the rim then allowed to settle down over it. The cord is then caught and the testicle can be removed. Careless or too rapid use of this instrument is likely to cause slips. A knife for making the incision into the body cavity is of course necessary. Almost any sharp-pointed, thin-bladed knife will answer the purpose well (see c). Some sort of spreader to spring apart the ribs far enough to allow the instruments to be inserted into the body must be used. A plain spring spreader, as shown at d, or a sliding spreader, e, allowing the pressure to be gauged, will answer the purpose. A sharp-pointed hook, h, for tearing away the thin membranes, and a blunt probe, of which g is one type, for pushing aside the intestines, complete the necessary equipment. A pair of small tweezers or nippers, f, is also useful in removing any foreign matter from the body.

The first instance of training young men at home for employment in the industry that is foremost in several of the Rocky mountain states.

The plan of preparing the wools at Ely, Nev., and at Wamsutter, Daley's Ranch and Solon, Wyo., did not involve the use of labor in skirting the fleeces and in separating the skirlings into first and second pieces and locks, as was done at Pioneer shed. The fleeces were carried from the shearing floor to tables in the wool room, where men who had had experience in warehouse grading removed the heavy tags, rolled each fleece, and assigned it to be baled under its proper name. No bale contained fleeces of more than one grade, and no string was used. The weight of tags and locks amounted to about 6 per cent of the total weight of the clip.

Western Wool Graded.

It was very apparent that the shorter wools, which are now so common in the western states, cannot be passed over tables for skirting and rolling nearly as satisfactorily as longer wools. They can, however, be graded to remove the necessity of opening the bales before they reach the mills. This work of preparing wool by improved methods was keenly watched by many of the wool growers in the surrounding country, and it is estimated that the entire cost of the experiment was fully paid by the lesson it furnished of the value of breeding sheep for better wool production. The flock masters often showed great surprise when, for the first time, they saw wool graded, and for the first time knew what grade of wool they actually produced. Heretofore most growers in reading market reports have been prone to note quotations for the highest grade and value their clips accordingly.

The wools graded and baled at Wamsutter shed were offered for sale by sealed bids on May 4, but because of the difference between buyers' and growers' ideas of values, no sales were consummated. Since the selling of wool was not general at that time, there could be no current quotations with which to compare the prices received for better prepared wools with those received for others of a similar character and quality put up in the old-fashioned way. Of course this experiment this year will not suffice to answer the question as to how far the western wool growers can profitably proceed in changing methods of preparing wool. Some alterations or modifications of this year's work may be suggested when these wools reach the mills. This year's step, however, has been in the right direction, and wool producers throughout the United States will watch with interest to learn the prices received for this better prepared wool.

TRUE FRIEND OF GARDENERS

Toad Destroys Vast Amount of Insect Life and Should Be Afforded Ample Protection.

The dietary of a toad contains 77 per cent of insects and the remainder is composed of spiders, crustacea and worms. Having an amazingly active tongue, he captures much of his food on the wing.

There is every reason why farmers and gardeners should encourage and protect the toad. European gardeners often purchase toads, considering their vigilance in hunting insects well worth a trifling outlay.

Toads become very tame when treated with consideration, and as they never do any harm, beyond occasionally excavating a little cave for mid-day retirement in a favorite flower bed, while destroying a vast amount of insect life, there is every reason why they should be welcome guests.

accurate and the big liner settled quickly and disappeared from view.

Some survivors according to reports, say that they had just witnessed the torpedoing of a British steamer, presumably the Dunsley, and that this had caused great alarm on board the Arabic. In their fright the passengers had rushed for life preservers and barely had adjusted them when the German submarine turned its torpedo against the Arabic's side.

Ten lifeboats and a number of life rafts were got over the side of the steamer, and into these many passengers and members of the crew scrambled. Many passengers fell into the water, but they got hold of the rafts and later were rescued.

One woman who fell into the sea screamed piteously for help. Two sailors swam to her and lifted her onto a raft.

Among those rescued were Captain Will Finch, commander of the Arabic; all the deck officers, the chief engineers, the surgeons, the assistant purser, the chief steward and the third-class steward. Third Engineer Lugon is among the missing.

ON THE LUSITANIA.

One passenger was Kenneth Douglas, the English actor. He was on the Lusitania when she was sent to the bottom. His good luck followed him again today, for he was among the survivors.

News of the sinking of the Arabic caused a tremendous sensation in London. The first reports stated that it was feared a large number of the passengers had been lost. Reassuring news came shortly, however. It was that some fifteen or sixteen boats and life rafts had left the steamer safely and had been picked up and were being towed into Queens-town. Later private telegrams brought the news from most of the passengers that they were safe, although some were injured.

The Arabic is the largest yet sunk by the Germans except the Lusitania.

New York, Aug. 20.—Careful checking of the various lists of survivors of the Arabic, as given out in London, Washington and New York showed that all passengers listed by the White Star line as Americans on board the vessel had been saved.

It is possible that some Americans boarded the liner as she was about to sail and were carried in the list given out by the White Star line as other nationalities.

The names of American survivors as given out by the White Star line offices showed all but three cabin and four steerage passengers of known American residence as accounted for. These were James Houlihan, Miss Josephine Bruguiere, of New York, and Edmund Woods, of Janesville, Wis., in the cabins, and Thomas Elmore, William Hughes, John Kellett and John Olsen in the steerage.

Vice-Council Thompson's report to Washington gave Houlihan, Olsen and Elmore as saved. Private cables from Liverpool advised that Miss Bruguiere, Woods, Hughes and Kellett had been rescued.

WESTERLY AND HIS PAL

By VANE THOMPSON.

Westerly slept.

A step sounded on the path and a girl lithe and brown and gypsy-looking, paused to gaze down at him.

She was still regarding the sleeper with speculative interest when two men stepped quickly out of the thicket.

One of them caught the girl's shoulder in a rough grasp. The other covered Westerly with a gun and kicked him into wakefulness.

"Caught you, haven't we?" jeered one of them.

There was a flash of silver stars beneath coat lapels and one of the detectives condescended to explain the situation.

"To begin with, Wickes," he said coolly, "of course you know what we're after."

"My name isn't Wickes," returned the other calmly.

"Oh, well, of course you'll deny it! Call yourself John Doe if you want to—and your pal here, call herself Jane Doe, if she likes it better."

"Pal!" echoed the man and girl in unison. "Why, we are strangers!"

"Can it!" said the detective with a rude laugh. "I've got your descriptions here somewhere. You're wanted for the Redman jewel robbery."

The girl uttered a sharp cry and then was silent.

Westerly laughed outright, but he watched the girl with curious eyes.

"Oh, you come along. You can talk it over at headquarters." And Westerly and the girl were hurried to a waiting motor car and whirled cityward.

Westerly watched the girl with growing curiosity. She did not look like a criminal, although the detectives insisted upon calling her French Mary. She sat close lipped with an air of aloofness that puzzled her companions.

As Westerly studied her profile he noted that underneath the golden tan was a clear white skin, her features were regular, the contour of her face exquisitely dainty. Her hair was a misty black cloud beneath an ancient panama hat. Her skirt and blouse of tan linen were muddy and stained, and her little brown hands were scratched and soiled. On one finger glared a superb emerald.

Westerly's eyes widened. The story of the Redman emerald had appeared in every newspaper, together with the list of missing jewels. And this girl was wearing it openly, brazenly.

One of the detectives laughed harshly and touched the ring.

The girl drew her hand away with a haughty gesture.

"Please do not touch me again," she requested.

"What fine airs!" sneered the discomfited official. "And what jewels might you be wearing Mr. John Doe?" He turned to Westerly.

"I'll show you when we face the chief," said Westerly grimly.

The girl turned and looked at him curiously. Perhaps she studied his clean-cut face with its close-lipped mouth and quiet gray eyes too long, for when Westerly encountered her gaze she blushed hotly and turned away.

They reached headquarters and soon faced the chief's keen scrutiny.

"What the dickens, men," he began, and then became watchfully silent.

"Slippery Wickes and his pal, French Mary—wanted for the Redman robbery," announced the detective promptly.

"Yep—caught with the goods on. Show the chief your emerald, my lady!"

The girl laid her little soiled hand on the chief's big one.

"Is this the Redman emerald?" she coolly said. "I've worn it for years. It belongs to me!"

"Go on," he said to her, "tell me who you are and how you happened to be caught?"

The girl laughed musically. "Why, I am Cynthia Redman," she said. "I knew this man must be innocent of the robbery, for this afternoon my father's coachman made a full confession of the crime and restored the stolen property."

The crestfallen detectives looked upon Westerly as a remaining prop to their official dignity.

"Shall we run this fellow in?" one asked.

"Oh, run yourselves in for a pair of numskulls!" snapped the chief. "Can't you recognize one of your own police commissioners?"

"Westerly, at your service," grinned the dusty man. "I was trying to find the Redman place—wanted to do a little sleuthing myself."

As the chief went out with the two detectives Westerly faced the girl.

"Thank you for trying to help me," he said sincerely.

"And thank you for assisting me," she returned.

"We really were pals, after all," said Westerly in a tone of deep satisfaction.

She did not contradict him.

They have been married five years and they are still pals, and always will be.

Both kinds. "He's so dogmatic." "Yes, and has such a categorical way with him."

ROUSING EXERCISES

Supt. L. E. Foster, of Christian County, Orator of The Day, at Morganfield, Ky.

Upon the urgent request of Supt. Geo. Curry, of Union county, Ky., Prof. L. E. Foster delivered an address before an enthusiastic audience of more than a thousand people at an Educational meeting held out about seven miles of Morganfield, Ky., on August 18th.

It was the occasion of the graduation of the eighth grade pupils from the Public Schools of Union county, forty diplomas being given out. Supt. Foster spoke on the "Value of an education from a monetary and aesthetic standpoint." Many expressions of pleasure and applause were accorded his masterful handling of the rural school problem as a business proposition. Enthusiasm ran high throughout the day. Splendid addresses were delivered by Supt. Dingleton, of Uniontown, and Supt. Justice, of Sturgis, Ky.

Supt. Foster expressed great satisfaction with the progress that is being made in rural education in Union county. He says that Supt. Curry is a man of a great vision and that his people are thoroughly in sympathy with his plans as evidenced by the fact that his County Board has recently purchased for him a Ford car, and guarantee to keep it in running order, defraying all expenses in order that he may devote more of his time to his work in the county.

Now, as never before, there exists a harmonious and sympathetic feeling between County Superintendents which betokens great advance in rural education.

Superstition in Roumania. The Rouman is superstitious. He has popular tales that mark the red-headed man and the man without a mustache as strange characters who are sure to work mischief. In some parts of the country there are still old pagan beliefs in witches. Many old semibarbaric customs remain, as, for instance, that of burying the dead with uncovered faces. In some parts of the country a flower is painted on the wall of a cottage wherein lives a girl of marriageable age.

Liquor Poured Into Sewer. Mayfield, Ky., Aug. 20.—A large quantity of contraband whisky, wine, brandy and beer was destroyed in the basement of the courthouse, where the liquors have been securely locked up since being captured in a raid at Dukedom in the south part of the county on the Tennessee line December 23, 1914. A recent order of court ordered Sheriff W. B. Sullivan to destroy the stuff, and in the presence of County Judge W. V. Gregory and other officials the "goods" were poured out and allowed to flow away into a sewer.

Ambush In Estill. Winchester, Ky., Aug. 20.—Robert Puckett was shot from ambush and probably fatally wounded last night in Estill county, just across Red River from this county. He was brought to this city this morning about 7 o'clock and placed in Bethany Hospital, where physicians said late today they entertained little hope for his recovery.

Rural Schools Begin Aug. 30. All rural schools that have not commenced yet should begin on Monday, August the 30th. The first Monday in September is on the 6th and that is rather late to start the rural schools.

The trustees should observe this notice and notify their teachers accordingly. L. E. FOSTER, County Superintendent.

Shack Raided. The "soft drink" shack of William Orten, situated over the Hopkins county line in Caldwell county on the outskirts of Dawson, was destroyed by a party of men numbering between 50 and 100 Monday night. Nobody was injured but enough shots were fired through the building to riddle the place.

Rain Helps Crops. Elkton, Aug. 20.—Great improvement has been noted in the condition of Todd county corn and tobacco as a result of the recent rains. Especially is this true with respect to tobacco, which for some time held out but little promise for a crop of even average quality.

"PENALTY JUST."

Mayor Warns Slaton Against Return To Georgia.

San Francisco, Aug. 19.—J. G. Woodward, Mayor of Atlanta, Ga., in an address here last night declared that Leo M. Frank, who was lynched Monday night, suffered the "just penalty for an unspeakable crime." The Atlanta Mayor at the same time warned former Governor John M. Slaton, now in California, not to return to Georgia. Mayor Woodward's address was made at a banquet of the California State Assessors' Association.

Little or no applause greeted his remarks, although he was listened to with close attention. In the course of his speech, Mayor Woodward said: "I am going to take occasion tonight to tell of the events that have put Georgia on the map in a very unpleasant light. I am going to endeavor to set you right. People throughout the United States have obtained their ideas of the Frank case from a poisoned and subsidized press and press reports.

DECLARES VERDICT JUST.

"Common decency prevents me from telling you the revolting truths of the murder of Mary Phagan. I wish you all to know the truths as I know them. I know them, for I have been with this case ever since it started, and I have read every line of evidence that was introduced. I know that there is not a member of the jury that tried Leo M. Frank who would change his decision if put to the test again.

"Georgia is the leading State of the South. Its people cannot be classed with tramps, hoodlums, bandits and lawbreakers, but things had come to a point where every avenue of the law had been exhausted and the judgment of the courts set aside by one man, and the people felt that it was up to them to take the law into their own hands.

"While we people of Georgia deplore this deed of Monday night, we know what is behind the feeling that prompted it and I want it understood that it is simply emphasizing the fact that when it comes to a woman's honor there is no limit we will not go to avenge and protect.

NEGRO NOT MURDERER.

"There are only two people implicated in the death of Mary Phagan. I know the negro did not commit the deed and am positive that 75 per cent. of the people of Georgia are convinced that the man lynched Monday night committed the deed, and they are on the ground and ought to know.

"As mayor of Atlanta, I have received tons and tons of letters, petitions and requests asking that something be done for Frank, and they have all gone into the waste basket, for like all Georgia people who are in a position to get at the truth, I knew the facts.

"I know Jack Slaton, have known him for thirty years, ever since he was a young man. I have been friends with him and while I hate to say it, I would not advise him to return to Georgia for a year—if ever."

FORMER GOVERNOR

Replies To Statement Issued By Atlanta's Mayor.

San Francisco, Aug. 19.—Former Gov. John M. Slaton, of Georgia, who commuted the death sentence of Leo M. Frank to one of life imprisonment, issued a statement to-day condemning an address delivered last night by Mayor J. G. Woodward, of Atlanta, Ga., and terming the Mayor "old and garrulous." He called the Frank case a "football of politics."

Commenting on Mr. Woodward's statement that three-fourths of the people of Georgia, including himself, believed Frank guilty and condoning the lynching, Mr. Slaton said: "Similar utterances made before the lynching naturally resulted in subsequent lawlessness. In one breath he proposed to defend the fair name of Atlanta and Georgia, and in the next breath he cast on them the most terrible condemnation.

"Mayor Woodward suggested I could not with safety return to Georgia within a year. Such a statement is not only a gross reflection on the State, but it is absurd and ridiculous, and it is further stimulative of the mob impulse, coming from an official who should stand for law and order. It is in accord with utterances of others who expect to utilize the Frank case for political preferment.

"I was born in Georgia and I love her and her reputation. I shall return there in accordance with my original intentions.

"I think Mayor Woodward's statement is an affront to the people of Georgia instead of a defense. He is old and garrulous."

GREAT AMNOYANCE

CAUSED BY MIRAGES.

Capetown, Africa.—Mirages caused great annoyances to the troops of Gen. Botha's force during their recent strenuous campaign in German Southwest Africa. An officer describes the manner in which these mirages appeared in a letter from the field:

"The fatigue became awful. I began to get light headed. The sky seemed to become a straight wall in front of us, and the effect of the moonlight through the dust made me imagine I saw great palaces and churches, with the stars as little windows.

"Then I would pull myself together and look at the men riding in front, and they would turn into funny old giants dancing in the moonlight. I learned afterwards that everyone suffered from these hallucinations. There was no check now; we galloped on and on, mile after mile, over stones, drooping branches, just leaving it to the horses. Those splendid horses. They were far saner than we were."

TO THE CITIZENS OF HOPKINSVILLE

With apologies for presuming upon your patience and good nature at this time while the atmosphere is surcharged with both City and State politics, I desire to announce myself as an aspirant for Commissioner of the City of Hopkinsville before the Primary that is to be held under the law, as provided, on October 16th, and ask your kind indulgence for a brief statement of my claims and qualifications which I will state as modestly as I may.

Holding high ideals of public service and a deep sense of the obligations involved in this new and untried office of Commissioner, I can bring to it an integrity of purpose and a native ability and quickness of perception, together with a gift of organization; also having traveled extensively and visited cities of all degrees making observation and study of their advanced methods. I am in a position to see that Hopkinsville secures the best and most economical improvements and that she keeps abreast of every advanced method that has the approval of sound experience.

A wide and intimate acquaintance throughout the country, particularly among city officials and civic experts, opens to me a wide avenue of invaluable knowledge.

I believe that without additional cost and probably for less cost than now, that the very best streets throughout the city can be made and maintained simply by the exercise of the ordinary business methods of economy, accountability and system, with proper knowledge, but WITHOUT any favoritism or wasteful disregard for public funds.

Along with the conservation of expenditures commensurate with the utmost advancement along all civic lines, I believe in the conservation of the health of the community along the broad lines of actual life-saving and disease prevention and am opposed to the present petty methods that get no results but a job or two, and are a constant annoyance to good citizens who desire real sanitation. The health of yourself and family is the very first consideration in your "pursuit of happiness" and the blight of tuberculosis, malignant fevers and eruptive or infectious diseases of children can be minimized and practically banished by simple, sensible and effective measures employed in such a way that instead of being irritated every citizen will become an enthusiastic co-worker in the sacred duty of keeping a chair in many homes from becoming vacant.

Every moment of my time and every resource of thought and study will be devoted to the administration of the office in uplifting, upbuilding and beautifying the city and making it more and more a place of delightful attractiveness in which to live, indeed working diligently along these lines will be to me a labor of love and a source of never failing pride.

Needless it is for me to state that on each and every proposition I will be "unawed by influence and unbribed by gain," and ever the militant champion of a square deal.

As to the publicity of accounts, the law itself provides for a monthly public statement, and, of course, that will be observed.

Respectfully yours,
FRANK H. BASSETT.

Miss Agnes Flack was the hostess of an informal party for the As You Like It club yesterday morning. Delightful refreshments were served.

Entertains For Guests.

Miss Ruth Major entertained Wednesday night at her home on the Canton pike to compliment Misses Martha and Elizabeth Gary, of Church Hill, who are her house guests. Frozen custard and cake were served.

Dance at Elks'.

One of the best dances of the season was given at the Elks' club Thursday night. Simpson's Orchestra furnished the music. Among the visiting young ladies were: Misses Wiley, Terrell and Maurine Rye, of Paducah; Elizabeth Breeding, of St. Louis, and Ethel Thomas, of Georgetown, Ky.

Progressive Rook Party.

One among the most enjoyable social function of the season was a Progressive Rook party given Tuesday afternoon by Mesdames Tom and Forest Binns, complimentary to Mesdames F. M. Usher and Jeffie Myers, of Mindennines, Mo. The decorations consisted of a profusion of cut flowers arranged in a most artistic manner, giving the impression of a truly home scene in Florida, and bringing forth much admiration from everyone present on the happy occasion. A two-course luncheon was served and it is needless to add that ample justice was done to the bountiful spread of viands. Delightful music was rendered by Mrs. Tom Binns at intervals throughout the afternoon and this feature added greatly to the enjoyment of the assembly, which numbered two dozen or more.

Nobles At The Front.

The number of members of the House of Lords who are or have been serving in his Majesty's forces is 184, and in addition there are four peers of Scotland, and twenty-five peers of Ireland, who have no seats in the House of Lords, bringing the grand total up to 213.

Of the heirs to peerages twenty-five have been killed and nineteen wounded.

The number of peers' sons reaches the great total of 423 (200 of whom are heirs to peerages), with 43 killed, one who died while on active service and 31 wounded.

Carbolic Acid Route.

Maysville, Ky., Aug. 19.—Louis C. Cragg, of Kansas City, Mo., committed suicide by taking carbolic acid.

Peter Cook, aged forty years, also committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid. He was a prominent farmer. He drank a quarter of a pint of the acid.

Wanted To Be An Angel.

Hartford City, Ind., Aug. 20.—Dena Baker, aged 9, died after swallowing poison at her home near here today. It is said that the little girl often expressed the wish "to be an angel."

THE SEPTEMBER POPULAR MECHANICS MAGAZINE.

An unusual collection of 11 pictures of the "Eastland" disaster and rescue work accompany an article by Searle Hendee appearing in the September Popular Mechanics Magazine. These views give a clear idea of the general scene of the accident, show the degree of submergence, and indicate how it was possible, with thousands of persons rushing toward the spot and with numerous water craft swarming around, for nearly a thousand human beings to lose their lives.

Besides the "Eastland" views, the September Magazine contains 347 other illustrations. The first installment of a series of three articles under the general head "Four Years in the Navy," shows the activities of the United States apprentice seaman during the six months' preliminary training he receives at one of the government stations. With drills, educational work, hoisting practice, and amusements, the young man is transformed from a civilian of careless or indifferent habits into a mentally trained and developed physical type having a definite purpose in life.

Every phase of the great European war is shown in 15 consecutive pages of views, and a page view and an article give an idea of the operation of the German aerial torpedo, a recent development in this field. Other page views or groups of views in the September magazine are: "Workmen Wrecking High Wall beneath Their Feet," "Destruction in Wake of Cincinnati Tornado," "Model of Panama Canal in Operation," "Derelict Found by Cutter in Atlantic Lanes," "Primitive Processes in Field and Home," etc.

TO THE COAL DEALERS OF THE CITY AND COUNTY.

The Christian County Board of Education is ready to accept bids for the contract to furnish the coal for the schools this winter.

We shall need approximately ten thousand bushels of coal. We can use only lump coal free from slack. Most of this coal will be hauled during September and October by the districts.

The Committee appointed to receive bids consists of Joe Johnson, Edgar Harned and Will Lucy.

Sealed bids may be left at office of Superintendent.—Advertisement.

Uncle Charley Walks In.

Uncle Charley Bays, of Knox county, will be one of the unique characters which will adorn one of the seats of the coming Kentucky Legislature. As the boys put it, he walked in over both of his opponents, Parker and Price. Uncle Charley is 76 years old, wears jeans pants and brogan shoes and in the summer time no socks. He made the campaign all over the district a-foot. It is reported that Uncle Charley never was over 50 miles away from his home on Brush Creek in Knox county and that he hardly ever goes to Barbourville, only when he is summoned as a juror. They say he is well-read and talks reasonably well on the issues of the day.—Mid-dlesboro Three States.

Wallace for the Democratic nomination for Judge of the Chancery Court, First division, will be presided over by Judge P. Gregory unless he declines to serve and enters an order authorizing the clerk to have another allotment.

Suicide Pact.

Mayfield, Ky.—William Reed and wife, living east of Mayfield, formed a suicide pact and the husband is dead but the wife will recover. They went into a field about a hundred yards from their home and chose the carbolic acid route. The husband swallowed his, but Mrs. Reed became strangled and spit out the poisonous drug. The couple are past forty years of age.

Bowling Green, Ky., Aug. 20.—Garland, the 12-year-old son of William Logan, who lives five miles north of Smiths Grove, committed suicide late this afternoon. PUBLIC MOVIES HELD

IN BOSTON PARKS

Municipal motion-picture shows were held in the public parks and recreation grounds of Boston during the middle part of the summer. The scheme was promoted by several social-propaganda organizations, the mayor, and the park and recreation department of the local government. The programs were changed and the pictures displayed in public places in different sections of the city five evenings each week. Films of an educational nature, and those dealing with health and civic subjects, dominated the exhibitions.—From the September Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Here's The Best CONTEST OF ALL

EVERY CONTESTANT A WINNER AND NOBODY CAN LOSE

Trip To Mammoth Cave Will Not Cost A Cent

The Kentuckian has put on a subscription campaign which began July 19, which every contestant will be a prize winner, in which the contestants can work together and help each other and all unite in a common purpose. The plan is a simple one and the proposition is that every lady or girl who secures a club of 20 subscribers to the Kentuckian at $2 for a year's subscription, or a larger number of shorter term ones to make $40, will be given a FREE TRIP to MAMMOTH CAVE, all expenses paid, occupying two days.

Trips to the Cave are always fascinating, especially to the young, and everybody desires at some time to see this greatest of all caverns, the one thing above all else that makes Kentucky a mecca for tourists the world over. Even those who have seen the Cave before find something attractive in visits again and again. The Cave is so vast, its wonders so great and its attractions so numerous that one never tires of inspecting its miles and miles of underground passages.

There is not a neighborhood in Christian or adjoining counties in which some young lady cannot in one day secure 20 subscribers who will pay for a year's subscription to the Kentuckian and the deed is done, and this wonder of the world may be visited without its costing her one cent. The rules of the contest will be easily understood and capable of no understanding.

Subscriptions May Be Sent In at Any Time
From Now Until September 15.

They may be for a year or fractional parts of a year to make up $40 in each club. They may be for one year or more than one, not to exceed 5 years to any one subscriber.

Voluntary renewals in the office cannot be credited to clubs. The young ladies may secure rewards but must bring or send subscriptions in themselves.

Should any girl fail to collect a full club, she may transfer her strength to some friend, or by paying the amount necessary to complete the cost of the trip in cash, she may go on the same basis as the others.

The Contest Began Monday, July 19th And Will Close September 15th.

There will be no restrictions or limitations as to the territory. Get subscribers anywhere in or out of the county.

Only such payments on subscriptions as are made on or after July 19 will be included in clubs.

The contest will be conducted by the Business Manager of The Kentuckian and the names of those who desire to enter the contest for the trips offered will be given every possible assistance in getting up clubs.

In former contests many girls who did effective work in securing subscribers failed to secure awards, because others got more subscribers. This time every dollar collected represents a fixed value and every girl who gets up a club will be sure of the trip. The more the merrier. We would like to take 100 girls on this great outing.

TRIP BY ONE DAY'S WORK.

LUXURIES IN YOUTH AND AGE

To Provide for the Latter, Some Self-Denial Must Be Practiced in Early Years.

One day a young man twenty-five years of age told me he had just fallen heir to $2,500. He was going to spend the whole sum in a pure luxury. He said that $2,500 was not much money anyway, and that he might as well have a good time with it—even though the good time lasted only a little while.

When I told him in a general way that he ought to save that money I made no impression on him. But when I explained to him how $2,500 invested at 6 per cent, and compounded annually, would double in twelve years, he began to wake up. At thirty-seven he would have $5,000, at forty-nine $10,000, and at sixty-one $20,000. The $20,000 at sixty-one would be yielding him $1,200 a year—a little more than his present salary.

I had aroused his financial imagination to the first real work it had even done—so far as I know. He hung on to that money and invested it at 6 per cent.

I told him that when he is sixty-one and has that $20,000 maybe somebody else will give him $2,500, and so to go out and spend it if he wants to. Money spent at sixty-one by a man of some means is not like money spent at twenty-five by a young man of no means. The man at sixty-one has comparatively little chance left for his pile to grow. In fact, by sixty-one he is supposed to have his pile.

Always when contemplating luxuries consider how old you are before buying. The price of luxuries is much higher in early life than later. It is very high in youth. If you want some comforts and a few luxuries in old age control yourself in the earlier years. Get the foundation of your capital laid early, so that it will have time to build itself from small beginnings into a substantial amount—say at sixty—American Magazine.

PHILIPPINE ASPHALT.

The enormous deposit of asphalt of Leyte province, in the Philippines, is now to be worked for the eastern market by a local company. This almost inexhaustible deposit lies so near the shore line at Tacloban that ships can anchor and take on cargoes of asphalt from lighters loaded at the mines with practically no overland transportation. There is a large and growing demand in the islands for paving asphalt, and all the cities of the far East are now in a position to offer a market.—Scientific American.

TOO STRENUOUS.

"Jack," said a friend to a patrolman who had just turned in a report about a man taken ill on the street, "what did you say was the matter with that man in your report?"

"I reported," said the patrolman, with all the dignity of an accurate diagnosis, "that he had fallen down in an athletic fit."

CROSS QUESTIONS.

"So they are talking of getting married, are they? Pray, can she make bread?"

"Can he furnish the dough?"

EXCLAMATION APROPOS.

"Hercules was six months old when he strangled two huge reptiles who were attacking his cradle."

"Great snakes!"

Not An Experiment.

Paint, Lick, Ky.—Mrs. Mary Freeman, of this place, says: "Before I commenced to take Cardui, I suffered so much from womanly troubles, I was so weak that I was down on my back nearly all the time. Cardui has done me more good than any medicine I ever took in my life. I can't possibly praise it too highly." You need not be afraid to take Cardui. It is no new experiment. For fifty years, it has been found to relieve headache, backache, and similar womanly troubles. Composed of gentle-acting, herb ingredients, Cardui builds up the strength, preventing much unnecessary pain. Try it for your troubles, to-day.—Advertisement.

Duruy's History of the World

Four splendid cloth volumes, full of portraits, sketches, maps, diagrams

Today is the climax of a hundred years of preparation. Read in this timely, authoritative, complete, AND THE ONLY CONDENSED classic world history—of which over 2,000,000 copies have been sold in France alone—just what has taken place in the inner councils of Europe during the past one hundred years. Read in these entrancing pages how Russia has for years craftily been trying to escape from her darkness—to get a year-round open port, with its economic freedom. Read how Germany and Austria, fearful of the monster's latent strength, have been trying to checkmate her and how they have pinned all in this last, supreme stake.

The Lesson of the Past

THIS master of the pen shows you the glory that was Greece's and the grandeur that was Rome's. He guides you through the Middle Ages, the picturesque old days of feudalism and the crusades; through the Renaissance up to contemporary history, which Prof. Grousset completes in brilliant manner. In the story of the past he reveals the secrets of today. And you will understand them better when you get the Review of Reviews for a year—for the Review of Reviews will give you a sane interpretation of the events that are taking place with such rapidity. It is not enough to read the daily news reports. Your ability to comprehend conditions, and to discuss them rationally depends on a true interpretation of the meaning and the "reason why" of events. In your mind you must bring order out of chaos—and the Review of Reviews will do it for you.

BENEFIT IN STAIR CLIMBING

Properly Done, It Aids in Giving One an Erect and Graceful Carriage, If Heart Is Sound.

Climbing stairs always has been thought to be very injurious to a woman, yet in many cases, if it is rightly done, it may be of real benefit and gradually strengthen the heart and shoulders instead of doing actually the reverse. Mount the stairs slowly with the body erect, the head and chest high, and allow the leg muscles to do the work. Try this for a week, instead of the old way of bending the back and depressing the chest, and see how much it improves the general carriage.

A physical-culture exercise that is unusual for giving one an erect and graceful carriage, straightening the shoulders and making them as level as those of a West Point cadet is done by this same stair climbing, only in this case with the arms hanging at full length. The hands should be clasped behind the back, with the fingers interlaced and the hands turned as nearly to back as possible. Then, standing very erect, mount the stairs slowly, and before half the ascent is made every cell in the lungs will have been expanded many times. These exercises are excellent for anyone whose heart is in good condition, but when this organ is in a diseased state it is well to avoid stair climbing whenever possible.

POOR HUSBANDS

"Don't you pity our husbands in the city, in a stuffy office all day?" "Yes; and in a stuffy music hall all evening."

GEM OF ANCIENT ART.

A gem of the Minoan art has been recently acquired by the Boston Art museum. It is an ivory statuette with gold ornaments and details, 6 1/2 inches in height. The resemblance of the figure to that of the famous snake goddess found by Sir A. Evans at Knossos is obvious. But it resembles not so much any art of ancient Greece as that of gothic work of the thirteenth century. At the same time the character of the materials seems to preclude the possibility of forgery. She wears a dress of Cretan type, and her head is adorned with a splendid crown, on which a gold ornament was probably fixed. The statuette exhibits for the first time a treatment of the human figure which is comparable with the fine studies of animals characteristic of Cretan or Mycenaean art. It may be placed not far from the high-water mark of Cretan pottery, and it may go back to the middle Minoan age. This new discovery emphasizes more than ever the contrast between the art of Crete and that of ancient Hellas.

SAGACIOUS DEPARTURE.

"Why did you come so suddenly out of Miss Prettyman's house the other evening?"

"I thought it best to execute a strategic retreat, as I noticed her father seemed to have a hostile movement on foot."

A LIVE FACTORY.

Bill—What's become of that cheese factory that used to stand over there?

Jill—Oh, it moved.

"And did the proprietor know it?"

RETORT COURTEOUS.

He—I don't like people who don't live—who merely vegetate.

She—Then why do you associate so much with pickled beats?

THE KIND.

"He is an expert at making fools of people. He knows all the ropes."

"Then, I suppose, he uses gey"

DEMANDS FOR NEW WEAPONS

Trench Warfare in France Calls For Extraordinary Artillery.

The trench warfare in France has made two distinct and apparently contradictory demands upon manufacturers of artillery—one for weapons of extraordinary range, and the other for guns which will drop a shell at a short range than ever heretofore used.

The German gunmakers, who are developing long range guns capable of carrying a projectile from Calais to Dover, are at the same time showing remarkable ingenuity in making quaint little mortars which will toss missiles containing high explosives about as far as a football player can kick a goal.

The "minnewerfer" was the first of the short range weapons to meet the British troops in France, and it was regarded as a very excellent weapon of its class. But the newer German inventions of similar character are a hundred times more effective in deadliness and power.

The so-called "Rum-jar" is perhaps the most feared of the new German trench mortars. It is so named by the British soldiers from the resemblance of its missile to the gallon stone jars in which the army rations of rum are carried. The projectile is slightly more than twice the size of the army rum-jar, however. It is generally first sighted when approaching the top of its flight. In descent it turns over and over, its size and slowness of flight, enabling the soldier to follow it easily even from some distance. It is exploded either by a time or delayed percussion fuse, and is constructed of a thin steel case filled with trinitrotoluol. The damage it causes is due entirely to its detonating quality—it does not rely on metal or bullets for its effect. The explosion seems to be more instantaneous than that of any other projectile, and there is therefore a concentrated fury to the noise of its bursting that distinguishes it from all other projectiles.

The "Sausage" is another variety of missile fired, probably from compressed-air guns, inasmuch as the discharge makes so little noise as to be practically inaudible.

The "Percy" is a five-inch shell, which explodes in the air with an extraordinary "crack," while the less dreaded "Pip-squeaks" are missiles of similar kind but much smaller size. The so-called "Whizz-bang" is a bomb exploded by means of a time fuse, but thrown by hand.

What Turned Willie.

"What's the matter with Willie?"
"He's turned anarchist."
"Anarchist! Dear, dear! What's turned him?"

"He says he can't support any government that wilfully sends ships to bring home stranded school teachers."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Observant people will note that everything about Robinson's Famous Shows bears the stamp of super-excellence. The special trains of palace cars owned by this show are the finest ever built for the purpose. You will see them unload the handsome lot of horses that ever delighted the eye of horsemen. Note that the wagons, charlottes, cages, etc., are beautiful specimens of handwork from the world's best builders. Note the harness, trappings and paraphernalia, the costumes, decorations and accessories in every detail and you will see artistic excellence, care and lavish disregard of cost in order that their patrons may have the very best. You will note that the people are all well-dressed ladies and gentlemen, clean, courteous and distinguished in appearance, as befits the character of the exhibition of which they are proud to be servants. All these things mean something, and you who patronize these shows will observe that this high quality pervades the entire institution, down to the smallest detail. It is upon this principle that has been built up the reputation of the Robinson Famous Shows.

REDUCING THE ACREAGE.

"I understand your son is an advocate of intensive farming, Mr. Spriggins."

"Yes. He's been talking about it ever since he came back from college, but I'm inclined to question his motives."

"Why so?"

"I suspect he favors intensive farming because he thinks it easier to cultivate one acre than forty."

THE BRIGHTER SIDE.

"Sometimes I envy prehistoric man."

"Why so?"

"Existence for him was not so complicated."

"Perhaps not, but modern man has invented so many pleasurable forms of diversion prehistoric man never dreamed of that he doesn't realize how complicated life is."

LOGICAL DEDUCTION.

"Was Atlas the first trust magnate?"

"What makes you think that?"

"Didn't he hold up the world?"

THE DIFFERENCE.

"My wife objects to my coming home late."

"How remarkable! Mine objects to my staying out late."

GAME WITH OLD TIMERS

Stopped By Rain But Will Be Played Off at An Early Date.

Rain prevented the game Thursday between "Co. D" and the old timers but it will be played off sometime in the near future. Dr. Bassett has been in a state of excitement over the prospects he has of showing the youngsters the way the great old game really should be played. He has collected a rare galaxy of former stars of the diamond and claims they can knock the socks off of any pitcher in town in one inning and make Ty Cobb look like the hole in a doughnut when it comes to fielding. Among those who have already signed up are G. L. Campbell, Guy Starling, Jim Winfree and Stoney Morris.

PICKUPS FROM THE DIAMOND.

The fast and hard hitting Western State Hospital baseball team left Thursday on their much talked about trip to Louisville to play the Lakeland Asylum team. The Hospital here has one of the fastest bunches of amateur players in Western Kentucky and went with the intention of whitewashing the Lakeland fellows in a terrible manner. Thursday's game was won by the Western Hospital team by a score of 19 to 6.

If the weather permits Co. D will play a team from the Cox Mill Road on Saturday at the park. This is not a regular scheduled game and no admission fee will be charged but anyone who wishes can come out and see the overall nine play the soldiers. Co. D intends to show the agricultural aggregation how the great national game is played in the city, but you can never tell about baseball and the boys from the rural district may get away with a victory.

Cook Edwards, a former high school star, who has played on the local lots for several years but has been out of the game this year with a sore arm, will try to come back Saturday and will be on the slab with Co. D's opponents.

Concerning Word "None."

If the metropolitan newspapers which insist on their writers always using "none" with a singular verb, knew a little more about the English language, they'd get help to the fact that the word "none" is both singular and plural. "None are" was good English long before the scholarly editors of the King James translation of the Bible wrote "none of these things move me," and has been good English ever since. The trouble is that many metropolitan editors, ignorant of the history of the language and the older literature, humbly accept as law the views of prim purists who want to iron all the life out of the language and substitute starched rules of grammatical regularity for the good old idioms.

To say that "none of the victims was killed," as most big papers so scrupulously insist on doing, not only flies in the face of the natural, colloquial usage of the present day, but it is not even good English judged by literary standards. Shakespeare would never have said it.

"None" is simply an old Anglo-Saxon word written "nan" when singular and "nane" when plural. We write both singular and plural in the same way—"none"—and good authorities use the word generally as plural. When they want to be more specific, they use "not one" for the singular, as "not one of the victims was killed."

The word "any," which many newspapers insist on using with the same silly restriction, is likewise either singular or plural. "He didn't believe any of them was hurt," is bad English, in spite of the big papers. Steel, Thackeray or Hawthorne would have written "that any of them were hurt," or "that one of them was hurt."

These facts may be verified from an unabridged dictionary.—Owensboro Messenger.
